Sir Gordon in Hospital

Surrey: The Hospital Stakes; the roll is called, and still under [redacted] Doctor's orders (sorry Sir Gordon) is the first Knight of the Saddle - Sir Gordon Richards...

Recovering from injuries, received when racing [redacted] in the Royal Colours, at Sandown, the Champion Jockey hopes to be at light exercise in a few days...

A speedy come-back; [redacted] Despite rumours of retirement, we all hope to hear again "Come on, Sir Gordon"!

Rubber Dinghy demonstration

London: A demonstration of new sea-rescue equipment. From the deck of the RMS [redacted]. Durban Castle, a new-style rubber dinghy is thrown into the Thames...

A pull of a rip-cord has released gas mechanism [redacted] to make the lifeboat - self-inflating...

And in only thirty seconds, the Dinghy (made in sizes to seat six, ten or twenty people) is ready to protect ship-wrecked survivors under the most adverse weather conditions.

Ski-jumpers

A mid-summer snow-fall! No - it's not in Britain...yet! But at Salisbury, Connecticut, where they're preparing a artificial runway for an out of season ski-meet...

When it's really smooth - thirty-five top jumpers try it out.

[redacted].

[redacted]

And though they're mighty keen about their so-called winter sport - they're still glad that it's summer. After a bad jump - they can hit the hay - and then [redacted] hide in shame..
