

ANY MORE FOR THE SPACE SHIP

It's out of this world, almost, at Hulton's Boys and Girls Exhibition. It can be raining cats and dogs outside but in Olympia there is so much to see, the youngsters have the time of their lives. The Navy supplies a midget submarine which in the last war sank a ship and a floating dock in enemy waters. It's quite something to go home and say you've been inside it.

In Outer Space there aren't any cows. Milk's made by machinery. You feed hay to it and hope for the best. Unfortunately this model made a mistake and delivered peanuts.

 The cockpit of a Vampire jet's pretty good to be in, even if <sup>the</sup> young chap of today has his mind on the Milky Way. Various rockets that may be going <sup>in</sup> that ~~many~~ direction shortly are on view. Leading that field is the Dan Dare Space Ship. Red for Mars, green for Venus.
