

284
BUILDING EXHIBITION.

like us
Among the novelties at the Building Exhibition at Olympia were semi-vacuum completely sealed hollow glass blocks, which ignorant people would just call glass bricks. One advantage is that you get more light than you would through an ordinary brick, and another is that a girl on the other side becomes a whole beauty chorus. Would you mind sneeding a policeman to the man next door? He keeps looking through the wall.