

WEDDING.

P.C. Waite was uniformed bodyguard to the Prince of Wales and his wedding to Miss Chapman, cook-housekeeper at St James's Palace, was a Pressmen's festival. So great was the excitement, the bridegroom was lucky not to be pinched for obstruction.

SEAL.

It's bathing time in Melbourne --- and the sea-lion combining it with meal-time shows what he would do if he entered for the Grand Nxx National. Watch him in slow motion, giving an imitation of a seaplane. After the meal he retires to dry land for an after-dinner nap.

INVESTITURE

Buckingham Palace is even more busy than usual on the day ~~xxxxxx~~ of the investiture of those whom the king has honoured. Among the favoured are Miss Evelyn Fox, O.B.E., Sandringham Police Superintende and P.C. Bostock, awarded the police V.C. ~~And the guards carry on.~~

Also Squadron Leader
Swain, the altitude record breaker.
