CORONATION MATERIAL .

Still they come --- these Coronation armies from overseas -- welcome South Africa. King Yeta is yet another notability while the King's Indian Orderly Officers make a picturesque addition to the Indian Contingent. At Buckingham Palace Sir William Birdwood presented a Field Marshal's baton to the King, while the Grenadier Guards received from His Majesty their new colours.

Flying above Coronation London our camera picturised a city transformed. Decorations look like victory ^{and the London streets are} ~~while the London streets are~~ ^{at} ~~at~~

* Rows of tents in the Parks betray the Army of occupation, ^{Royal Family} ~~at~~ ^{at} ~~at~~ the Abbey at Westminster the King and ~~Queen~~ took part in a Rehearsal. When their majesties drove away the cheers of the crowd told once more of the ever-growing popularity of our King and Queen.

DEBUTANTES.

Pretty debutantes waiting to be presented to their Majesties crammed the London streets in their cars. With many thousand Coronation visitors and with Mr Smith driving his car instead of taking a bus, our poor little village is getting quite busy. And that meant that ~~the poor~~ debutantes began to wonder whether they would ever get to the Palace at all, but the thrill of being presented at Court is compensation for hours of anxiety and waiting
