

LEGLESS SWIMMER.

385

New York --- Charles Zimmy swam 150 miles down the Hudson River non-stop. He had regular meals en route. He also smoked cigars while he was doing it. Most amazing of all --- he has no legs.

SANTANDER.

Santander --- after the fall of another stronghold of the Spanish Government, troops of General Franco entered in triumph. By train, lorry and on foot the conquering army came pouring in --- Spain's weary manhood as far ~~xxxxxx~~ off as ever, it seems, from times of peace.

TWIN DESTROYERS.

High-Walker-on-Tyne ---- Twin destroyers were successfully launched. First --- H.M.S. Eskimo. Ten minutes later, H.M.S. Mashona went down the slips to join the Navy.

DUCHESS OF GLOUCESTER.

The Duchess of Gloucester during her visit to Scotland, presented Colours to the Aberdeen British Legion. Her Royal Highness was welcomed by Sir Ian Hamilton, and inspected a guard of honour formed by the Legion before performing the actual presentation ceremony, which took place inside the hall.
