

KIDS' OUTING.

484

Every day from May to September hundreds of poor children are taken from London out to the green fields at Upminster, in Essex. Every day during the summer months this trip is made, and over 50,000 kiddies are given a store of memories to last a year. The scheme was started by Mr Middlemas, owner of the racehorse Fairplay, and contributions have enabled him to build up the Fairplay fleet. ~~So now, by way of a change, let's listen to the kiddies.~~

When they get to Upminster they get out of the buses ~~they~~ and dash across the ^{wide} ~~wide~~ open spaces --- they've never seen so much of the good earth before --- and of course a never-failing attraction is the Punch and Judy Show.

Gosh, it's hot!

That's better!

Pull your trousers up!

So that's the end of a perfect day --- sleepyheads go jogging back home with a memory that will never fade.
