

SUNBURY RAG REGATTA.

588

There's a lighter side to regattas; they aren't all serious affairs of eight~~axm~~ and fours and young men bursting lungs and ~~na~~ muscles. Sunbury-on-Thames has a Rag Regatta and when they have a punt race it has to be the gardener's day off.

The main idea is that everyone should get as wet as possible. In ~~the~~ <sup>last year</sup> the canoe race they use saucepan lids for paddles. Next day cook ~~uses~~ a paddle for a saucepan lid.

And of course there's fighting on the greasy pole. This is rather like moving furniture ----- To me!

Now if you can just catch him unawares ~~to me!~~

Wouldn't it be funny if our side won after all? To you!
