

CONFERENCE OF SCANDINAVIAN RULERS.

King Gustav of Sweden was^{waiting} at the airport to welcome President Kallio of Finland when he arrived to attend the historic Stockholm Conference of the rulers of Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Finland. The last meeting of the three kings was in 1914 when they also discussed the problem of staying out of the war. This time the question of Soviet relations with Finland was an addition to the agenda. Next to President Kallio is King Haakon of Norway - on the other side of White-haired King Gustav of Sweden is King Christian of Denmark. At the end of the Conference a joint communique was issued declaring the right of these Nordic nations to adhere to their traditional policy of neutrality.
