KING AND QUEEN.

The King and Queen continued their tour of the West Country with visits to more factories. They saw at first hand how Britain is now building planes by ~~the~~ thousands where they used to be built only by hundreds. Their Majesties also inspected some of the units, both men and women, training in the district.

TRAINING FOR FIGHT.

It's not all work in the army. And even the fighting isn't always work. In this camp they're training for a fight, but they'll meet in the ring --- the Championships at the Red Cross Boxing Tournament at Wembley.

WRECKED BELGIAN SHIP.

Here is one of the freaks of a storm at sea --- a Belgian merchant ship broken in half by pounding waves. She ran ashore off the Devonshire coast and the beating she had on the rocks broke her back. Ironically enough, she was returning from a voyage in which she had rescued the crew of a Dutch freighter.

GORT AND LEBRUN.

M. Lebrun, the French President, was received by Lord Gort when he paid his first visit to the British Expeditionary Force in France. M. Lebrun inspected Welsh Guards, Gordon Highlanders and Sherwood Foresters in the course of his tour of the line.
