

MR CHURCHILL INSPECTS CZECH TROOPS.

It isn't often that you see the Prime Minister in the middle of a field all alone - but of course it isn't for long. After a few moments, Mr Churchill is surrounded again ~~and~~ in the midst of the duties of <sup>his</sup> high office. This was the first occasion on which the army of our allies from Czecho-Slovakia has received a visit from the Premier. With Dr Benes their President, he inspected them and took the salute at the march past.

Armoured cars, troop-carriers and anti-tank guns were included in the procession - part of the mass of armaments which is piling up for final assault.
