

THE TWENTIES SIGN ON FOR VICTORY.

All the girls born in 1920 have signed on under the Registration for Employment Order. All the girls who used to spend their ~~time~~ time playing tennis or otherwise looking decorative; all the girls who worked for their living in jobs that are no longer essential ~~to the life of the nation.~~

~~in a life and death struggle. Britain has said good bye to luxuries for the duration; there is only one type of work to-day - that's the work that'll win the war.~~

Now here's a pleasant wedding: ~~the bride is in a pretty gown and the groom is in uniform;~~ but ~~after the wedding~~ the bride has to sign on for Mr Bevin as soon as we observe the bursts on the target area.

The young women of Britain are just as anxious to play their part in the war effort as the young men; that's why you see the twenties here in force, ~~if you look at the right side~~ Britain has such food & luxuries for the duration: there's only one type of work wanted - do. day work at least on one side win at last of the table.

They still want recruits for the Women's Services - to help the Navy and the Army and the R.A.F. to help the factories? work on the land

It's the first time any attempt has been made to tell women what to do in large numbers; ~~we~~ we await the results with interest; knowing that women will ~~even~~ give up their pleasures for the good cause. But It's a pretty bleak outlook for the boy friend: What is the answer when he asks his girl to come out and have fun?
