HORSE SHOW.

It's always nice to see horses about, and here at Strathaven, <sup>(Stravon)</sup> they're holding a thoroughbred show.

Champions parade before the camera, stepping high, wide and handsome. With their frills and furbelows, they look like a lot of debutantes at their first party.

Out of all this galaxy of form, it's a thrill to know that some of these fine specimens were bred in Eire.

Stallion, mare or foal, ~~they're~~ they're all lovely to look at. And that great little comedian Sir Harry Lauder-- Scotland's No 1 Peter Pan- came to have a look round.

With such an array of champions and thoroughbreds, it must be a difficult job for the judges--

At the end of the show, ~~Sir Harry Lauder presented the prizes.~~

The prizes were presented to the winners.
