

If you've ever wondered where that little hat shop on the corner gets such smart models - here's the answer.

The Autumn Show of the ~~Millinery~~ Millinery Distributors' Association - so this delightful cocktail hat may soon be coming your way.

The Association distributes hats throughout Britain - keeping up with changing styles - such as the new draped beret - ~~and many more~~

This season hats will be worn on the back or the side - even if you do risk getting the bird!

~~See the picture~~ this 1957 Convertible in gold satin - often seen dashing along Bond Street for a luncheon date...)

And at no extra cost - there's an alternative choice for the woman who complains "I haven't got a thing to wear!"

Of course - for that smart occasion - the pill-box, with a tailored bow and spotted veiling, is an automatic choice. It's called "Veiled Intrigue" - but at least you now know where that little shop got it!
