Naples Festival

Italy: The voice of Naples - so often raised in plaintive love-song - bids welcome to an age-old festival that lights the city with a carnival glow...

It's the annual procession to celebrate the Feast Day of the Virgin of patronage
Piedigrotta - whose sanctuary has, for conturies past, renewed the faith of Neapolitans - and lent inspiration to their lilting serenades

Venezuela ora

From Venezuela comes a modern version of that old joke about having a job for life. There, the workers are slowly whittling away a mountain. It's Mount Bolivar, which contains about 65 per cent iron ore. So it's blasted away, bit by bit - toaproduce eleven million tons every year.

what you might call but of work.

The parties and the organic leade of disarmament may bring some
