

THE NAKED TRUTH - TRANSPARENT WOMAN

From Cologne comes Lamma, the scientific marvel which cost six thousand pounds to make, to serve as an object lesson when doctors tell visitors to the Olympia Food Show what goes on inside them. Young as she looks, she is already a woman with a past, for her secrets (and some of her many parts) were disguised as shopping parcels and smuggled to safety after the Russian occupation. She's five feet seven inches tall, weighs seven stone and has more than six miles of nerves and veins. At last we've found a woman you can see through at a glance.
