

STAGE STAR OF THE YEAR

The stars gather at London's Savoy Hotel to honour lovely young Jean Carson who last year rocketed to stage fame. Britain's own Jack Buchanan is here, and sweener-creeper Frank Sinatra has come along. The Variety Club of Great Britain, under their Chief Barker, Jack Goodlatte, have voted Jean Carson as "Musical Comedy Star of 1952." On behalf of the Variety Club, Jack Buchanan presents Jean Carson with a handsome scroll. Nearly all London's top theatre critics hailed Jean as a great discovery, and the scroll contains extracts from their reviews, signed by the critics themselves. Britain's show-world pays tribute to a bright new British star - Jean Carson.