

HOT WEATHER

Donaldson-Fitzgerald

The hot weather season has swooped down on the East Coast where everybody is getting away from it ~~xxx~~ by getting together.

The temperature is in the nineties; the beach-goers are in the millions.

While the mercury soars, the people dive. It isn't considered hot enough to remove the parachutes, but they are removing everything the law allows to get into that cool water. Others prefer to get the water into them.

Still others like a stroll in the sun, although it's hard to leave the water, any water.

Despite the evidence, it is a fact that someone walked.

There he is, second from left.

One way to comfort is via the stomach. Could be he's the coolest person on the beach -- cool man, cool.