SPRING FASHIONS.

Since Paris designer Jacques Fath died, his wife Genevieve has been running the famous house - and there's certainly a feminine touch about her spring collection. These lovely girls, modelling what's known as the "Chalice Line", actually look like women!

Olivia wears an embroidered, ivory-coloured cocktail dress, called Beltonia.

The Chalice Line features rounded hips, pronounced waist, tight-fitting bodices, and what Madame Fath describes as "important sleeves". If you've got some mink to cover them, like Jeanine here, that makes them even more important. Jeanine's dress, by the way, is made of a new material, "organzasatin". Work it out for yourself!

Oh well - roll on, Spring!
