

THOUSANDS FLEET
CALIFORNIA FIRE!

A storm of fire rages through a mountain resort area near San Bernadino, California. Seventeen hundred rugged fire-fighters speed to the scene to help stem the blaze, a conflagration that sweeps over ten thousand acres following the crash of a jet plane.

Luxurious homes at Lake Arrowhead are threatened as the battle against destruction goes on. All available men and equipment in the region are called on to check the fire. Up in smoke go several thousand acres of the state's most beautiful forest. But, luckily, the timber blaze claims no lives.

In tinder-dry California, it takes four days for man to win this fiery battle against the roaring flames!
