NEWS FLASHES.

At his Hazel Hampstead cottage, Mr. Arthur Lindley peels off some old wallpaper and makes a remarkable find - wall paintings of the life of Christ, five centuries old but still clear and vivid. The baptism of Jesus is portrayed, while further along the wall is a scene of Christ in Majesty. Scars made by pikemen probably during the early reformation, have not spoiled the freshness of this very rare work of art, hidden for centuries beneath layers of wall-covering, and now brought back to life.

Herr Schmidt has quite a family of pets - and although there are anxious moments, on the whole they have life by the tail, and take it as it comes.

It's a wise bird who knows when not to interfere in a purely private discussion.

Well, I don't know, I'm sure. It shouldn't happen to a dog - let along a cat!

Git aht of it!
