

YOUNG RUSSIA TRIES ENGLISH

English is fast becoming the most important foreign language taught in Russia. They begin young in Alma Ata, capital of the Soviet Republic of Kazakh. Mightn't it be a good plan to teach Russian in our schools ?

Somebody's late.

Evidently some Russian youngsters find it just as hard to get up in good time as our own do.

Even at the dental inspection, when they're asked a question they answer in English.