ART AT THE EMBASSY

The American Embassy broke new ground by staging an exhibition of modern art by U.S. painters, 33 of whom contributed 84 works. The pictures have been exhibited in Austria and Yugoslavia. Among the visitors was former world skating champion Sonia Heine. The pictures will go to Germany. All these showings are proof of the importance European art world attaches to the American painters of today.

Of course it isn't everybody who appreciates modern art. In fact if you bought some of the pictures you might think you'd been framed.
