CHILDREN'S WORK TO WIN BRIGADE.

The boys and girls of the village of Copdock are pioneers in National Service for the younger generation. The youth committee of the East Suffolk Education Authority, intend to enrol boys and girls between the ages of 14 and 20 for the valuable work of collecting scrap metal, and also to employ them in the many odd jobs in and around the farms and homes.

This experimental service squad are "on their metal" with a house-to-house canvas for scrap. "Hello Chum, where's that bucket your Mum promised us?".

But from these early efforts may grow a vast scheme embracing the whole country. So once again "Youth takes a bow".
