

70/98 4800

SOUTH AFRICA'S HOME GUARD

They're called the Police Reserve in South Africa, but their duties are similar to the Motherland's Home Guard..... they know how to handle arms; and carry out field work as to the manner born.

A signal is given, and an apparently deserted stretch of country becomes suddenly alive. Rifles snap into action, and the battle is on.

When the Reserve is inspected by Colonel Denys Reitz, Minister of Native Affairs, the turn out is some three thousand strong. Few of these men can go on active service; But they are anxious to do their bit, in defence of their country.

If Hitler and his boy friend start any nonsense in this area, the Reserves will make them wish they hadn't!