LIVERPOOL PAYS UP - Lively scenes during University students' "Panto Day" raid on behalf of Merseyside hospitals.

-Lancashire-

Picture:- Last week's Battle of Liverpool students was a vigorous preparation for this Panto Day procession.
Hospitals require funds and the students-- --say they shall have them. Trains and-- --tram cars were boarded, raided and rifled,--

--the passengers being willing enough victims. Even the Lord Mayor himself was kidnapped (not that he minded very much),--

--and was imprisoned in a newspaper office until he had--

--sent out a printed S.O.S. meaning "Send Out Silver".
An actress of the local theatre--

--was also kidnapped, but as she was pretty and charming, she was released and kidnapped later in the evening, but it was all in--

--a good cause, and enables Merseyside hospitals to carry on with the good work
