

PRINCE OF WALES TOUR

COUNTY DURHAM WELCOMES ROYAL VISITOR.

Picture.:-

Even this day of fog and rain sees our untiring Prince of Wales paying duty calls to observe for himself how the other half of the world lives. His Royal Highness arrives at Sunderland on a tour of Durham's County's unemployed centres. Welcomed by--

--Lady Raine, the Prince is conducted to the sunlight verandah of the Voluntary Nursery School. Unfortunately the verandah is very much minus the sunlight.

The crowds are soaked, but their enthusiasm isn't even slightly--

--damped

The next visit of the Prince is to the Stanley Social Service Centre, where he has consented to lay--

--the foundation stone of the Centre's new--

--buildings. His Royal Highness took a very real interest in details of the work. In one section the Prince took up some flowered wineyette, and asked if it were for making curtains. "No", replied--

--the lady in charge. "It is for women's underwear. The Prince also laughed.
