CELEBRATED AT HOLYWOOD, Co. DOWN.

Picture.:-

The famous 1st Battalion Border Regiment, now stationed at Belfast, celebrates the century-old victory of Arroyo-dos-Molinos. The smallest drummer boy of the Regiment takes over the parade from the Drum Major. The uniforms worn are an exact copy of those in use at the time of the action in the Peninsular War, when an entire French Regiment was captured complete with these actual drums. The proud boy Drum Major R.H. Amy is just fifteen-years of age, and at the moment feels every year of that great age. The Battalkon is very jealous of this honourable victory which is not shared by any other regiment. The march-past is ending, and Drum Major Henry Amy's great day is over, - - until, of course, he's promoted a pukka Drum Major.
