

OLYMPIC GAMES
OPEN AT GARMISCH-PARTENKIRCHEN.

Picture:- The Olympic Games are opened at Garmisch Partenkirchen in a snow-storm. Despite that the fifty-thousand spectators give the 1500 competitors a warm ovation.

28-nations are represented. Britain has sent what we hope is a strong team. Canada expects to take back a few honours. Japan as sent competitors. Austria's winter sportsmen are well represented, while Sonja Henie heads the Norwegian team.

America sends a strong ice-hockey team. The athletic fifteen-hundred, standing beneath the flags of their countries, solemnly take the oath to honourably and fairly play their parts in deed and in spirit. The ceremony is quite a thrill, well staged and remarkably impressive.

Symbolically flying above the national flags is the flag of the games, with its interwoven circles. A Towering beacon is flaming as the games commence. Ice Hockey. America versus Germany. Play is difficult, owing to snow continually gathering on the ice.

Constant sweeping interrupted the game, which America wins by one goal to nil.
