

MOROCCO MASSACRE.

7/6/57.

One of the most revolting episodes of the war in Algeria occurred in this small mountain village of Melouza, about a hundred miles south-east of Algiers. A large detachment of rebels descended upon the village and murdered the members of a Muslim family ~~xxxxxx~~ suspected of sympathy with the French. Attempts to prevent the murder resulted in the slaughter of ^{almost} the whole adult male population ---over three hundred youths and men.

CHIMNEY SWEEPS.

This is the time of year when almost every trade is electing its King and Queen --- and in Brussels they've elected Antoine and Marie Louise as their king and queen ~~fm~~ of the chimney sweeps. An unusual feature is that they have a dog on the tiles instead of a cat.

Antoine and Marie Louise are husband and wife --- and Marie Louise is already an expert although she's only been doing it for four years. In fact --- in this case, it's the husband who slips, but it's nice to meet at least one wife who doesn't want her husband to break his neck.